Learn about the state of diversity and inclusion in the workplace at Yale from key leaders. Topics include:

- What is the current state of diversity and inclusion at Yale for its employees? Where is there still room for improvement?
- Of the four areas of proposed change that resulted from student activism in the fall, which, if any, will impact employees?
- What does diversity mean to the leadership of Yale?
- What resources are available to staff, faculty, and postdocs?

Introductory remarks by Mike Peel, Vice President for Human Resources and Administration
