Welcome to Yale’s LGBTQ’s Virtual Spring Social, hosted by Kumospace! Kumospace is a collection of virtual “party rooms” that mimic the experience of hanging out in person.

It’s been a long time since any of us gathered in large groups, so we created a guide to remind you how to interact with other people. The guide also includes tips for navigating Kumospace.

How to enter Kumospace

1. Go to kumospace.com/lgbtgaffinity to create an account. For security reasons, you must use a Yale email to access the space!
2. After you have registered, please create your name as you wish to be viewed in the space. You are encouraged to use pronouns!
3. Click “Join” to enter the space.
4. Decide which room to join. You have four choices of rooms. You can see how many people are in each room. Each room can fit up to 30 people.
How to Navigate Kumospace

- There are a few rooms within our space. You can see the number of people in a room before you enter, but not who is in there. Enter a room by clicking on the space.
- To move about a room, click your mouse where you want to go. (Please don’t stand on the furniture, the bar, or other guests.) You can also use the arrow keys to move around.
- You will notice a lightly-colored circle surrounding your icon. You can only hear people in that circle. As others move toward the edges of your circle, they will be harder to hear - just like in real life.
- Exit a room by clicking on the red EXIT sign at the bottom of the screen/room.
- If the room is too noisy and you can’t hear your friends, you can move to a quiet corner of the room.

Map

- To view of the entire room while in a room, click the “map” icon in the lower-right corner of your screen. Click “map” again to close this view. (Use this function to locate the bar, the exit, and your friends).
- Within each room, you can view each person’s name by hovering your mouse over their initials

Messaging

- You can click “chat” in the lower-left corner of the screen to message others in the space. Click “chat” again to close this. If someone sends a message and your chat box is not open, then you will hear a ping.
